

LEVERAGING ENERGY PARTNERSHIPS IN THE STIMULUS ENVIRONMENT

April 15, 2010
Sheraton National Hotel
Arlington, VA

REGISTER TODAY

The environment for the use of public-private partnerships (PPPs) is rapidly changing, presenting new opportunities and challenges at all levels of government (federal, state and local). The focus of the conference is to outline this new environment, the opportunities, and how PPPs can be used to address funding gaps to leverages limited public funds.

PPPs are one means of fulfilling both immediate and long-term objectives for economic stimulus and energy projects. Authorities from Congress and seasoned observers discuss this rapidly evolving environment and its implications for the increased use of public-private partnerships for energy efficiency and renewable energy. All levels of government face challenges that can be addressed with the use of PPPs.

Join us for an information-packed conference. Register today!
